Description

Auction is a bidding competition which tests the prediction skills, financial management skills and at the same moment the knowledge of identifying your assets. There was a pool of cricketers of all the attributes, i.e. batsmen, bowlers and all-rounders, who were divided into respective pools according to a specific attribute such as spin bowlers/fast bowlers, and were available for auction for the participants with a specific starting base price associated with their names. The participants formed a team by buying players of their choice after bidding for the player being announced and placing a bid higher than any other team bidding for the same player in order to get him into the team, keeping track of their remaining funds at the same time for the rest of the process. The team having the highest overall rating of the playing squad won.

Format of Auction
